HIGH PERFORMANCE

The High Performance (HP) tennis program at the WAC Lake Country is designed for our most committed junior tennis players, incorporating training in fitness, shot-selection, and strategy to improve success in match-play. To ensure players are prepared for the demands of the program, new participants must receive a coach's recommendation before joining, as certain foundational techniques and skills are expected.

The program is divided into two levels: HP Progression and HP Academy.

HP PROGRESSION

The HP Progression (HPP) program is designed specifically for junior tennis players in the Youth Progression pathway (Orange, Green, and Yellow Ball) who have the skills necessary to begin training for competitive play. HPP introduces match-play through in-house camps and encourages participation in USTA youth-progression tournaments.

To further emphasize match play as part of the development of our junior players, HP Yellow Ball participants are required to play in minimum of one USTA tournament every six months.

HP ACADEMY

HP Academy (HPA) is for advanced players who have completed the HP Progression stage or have a coach recommendation. HP Academy athletes are required to compete in at least 10 USTA or sanctioned matches every three months to maintain their status in the program.

Throughout the High Performance tennis program, players are expected to uphold three core principles: give 100% effort, train with respect, and focus on personal development. Tennis is a journey filled with unique challenges and accomplishments, and we aim to provide a competitive and supportive environment for players to grow and achieve their goals.

Our High Performance tennis program has a proven track record of success, with players earning WIAA individual and team state titles, achieving top 10 rankings in their recruiting classes, and advancing to play college tennis, including at the Division I level.

Whether your goal is to start competing in Orange Ball tournaments, earn a spot on your high school varsity team, or play collegiate tennis, the High Performance tennis program offers a path to success for those who meet the expectations and match-play requirements (HP Academy only).

Matches played in Challenge Ladder will count toward the match requirement to maintain HP status.

USTA TOURNAMENTS

To maintain their standing in the WAC-Lake Country's High Performance tennis program, players must compete in 10 matches that count toward UTR or WTN every three months. Challenge Ladder and Varsity high school tennis matches count toward this requirement. This requirement ensures that HP players are consistently challenged and have the opportunity to apply the skills learned in class in competitive match play. It is highly encouraged to play events outside of the WAC to play against opponents outside the program.

USTA tournaments, which can be found at usta.com, range from Level 7 (beginner tournaments) to Level 1 (for top players in the USA).

WHAT IS A UNIVERSAL TENNIS RATING?

The Universal Tennis Rating (UTR) provides an objective, accurate measure of a player's skill level, ranging from 1.00 (beginner) to 16.50 (world-class professional).

A player's UTR becomes reliable after about five matches and is calculated based on results from USTA tournaments, Challenge Ladder matches, and other match-play events. The rating considers both the quality of the opponent and the total games won. A player's UTR is a weighted average of up to their 30 most recent match ratings, with only matches played in the past 12 months contributing to the rating. For more details on how UTR works, visit utrsports.net.

HOW WE USE UNIVERSAL TENNIS RATINGS

WAC-Lake Country uses Universal Tennis Rating (UTR) to organize class levels within the HP Academy program and to determine selection for HP Doubles classes.

CRITERIA

HP Yellow Ball	1.0 - 1.59 UTR
HP Academy 1	1.6 - 3.29 UTR
HP Academy 2	3.3 - 5.49 UTR
HP Academy 3	5.5+ UTR
Next Gen Doubles	Top 8 applicants under 6.0 UTR
HP Doubles	Top 8 applicants over 5.0 UTR

WHAT IS WORLD TENNIS NUMBER?

World Tennis Number (WTN) is a rating system similar to UTR, providing an objective measure of tennis skill. A player's WTN ranges from 1.0 (world-class professional) to 40.0 (beginner).

The key difference between UTR and WTN is that WTN measures total sets won, while UTR tracks total games won. Like UTR, WTN gathers match results from USTA tournaments and evaluates them based on the quality of opponents to calculate and update a player's rating. USTA Tournament Directors also use WTN for player selection and seeding in draws.

HP FITNESS

Why is fitness important for tennis players?

For any high performing athlete, fitness is mandatory and integrated into their weekly training - this is no different for tennis players. It can be the deciding factor in a tightly contested match. As any coach will tell you, "The best ability is availability." Longevity and consistency will help maximize and accelerate the development process. A strong fitness foundation enhances speed, agility, endurance, and overall performance on the court. It is no surprise that top players prioritize fitness training to outlast and outperform their competitors.

How is fitness incorporated into the High Performance tennis program?

Fitness training plays a crucial role in the High Performance tennis program, helping players enhance their on-court performance and overall athleticism. Each 30-minute session is carefully structured, beginning with a dynamic warm-up that incorporates slow-tempo mobility exercises to prepare the body. This leads into high-tempo, quick-twitch movements that develop explosiveness and agility.

Players work through a variety of exercises designed to improve stability, power, and coordination. These include single-leg balance drills, explosive footwork patterns, rotational plyometrics, agility exercises focused on acceleration and deceleration, and hand-eye coordination activities.

Since each High Performance class includes athletes of different ages and skill levels, trainers adjust exercises as needed to ensure that every player, whether in a group or individual setting, is appropriately challenged and supported.

What would a personal training session look like and why would it be beneficial for tennis players?

Personal Training provides junior tennis players with a tailored approach to enhancing their athletic performance. In a one-on-one setting, a fitness professional can identify and address individual challenges such as muscle imbalances, poor movement patterns, limited coordination, lack of body awareness, or overall weakness.

Though group fitness training, like HP Fitness, offers many benefits, Personal Training focuses on the specific needs of each athlete. This targeted approach allows players to build strength, improve mechanics, and develop key athletic attributes that directly translate to better performance on the court.

How Would a Workout Plan from a Personal Trainer Benefit a Junior Tennis Player?

A custom workout plan offers junior tennis players a personalized approach to improving their athletic performance. Tailored exercises focus on the athlete's unique needs, targeting key fitness components such as mobility, strength, balance, endurance, explosiveness, and mental focus.

Every athlete has areas where they excel and others where they may struggle. A personalized plan helps address these weaknesses while building on their strengths, ensuring a well-rounded development. This individualized approach not only enhances overall performance but also reduces the risk of injury, enabling players to perform at their best on the court.

My favorite part of HP was doing it with friends and family. My brother and I did HP together for years along with many of our friends and made awesome memories. It makes tennis way more exciting when you get to do it with people you have fun with. It's easy to get burnt out in tennis, so I think the environment in HP made me always want to come back for more.

The HP program helped me reach my goal of playing D-I tennis in so many ways. The blend of tennis and conditioning really helped my on-court growth by helping my movement and stamina. There is also so much benefit to hitting with many different people, both boys and girls. Getting to practice this variety prepared me so well for college, because each player I encounter has their own unique skills and strategy. Finally, HP taught me what it means to be a member of a team. Tennis is a highly individual sport, so being a part of a team and doing the famous Davis Cup days helped me get into a team mentality. Once you get to college, your team matters more than you, and I would say HP put me a step ahead by preparing me for this transition.

My favorite part of HP is playing up and down the river. It pushes you to compete every point and work your way toward the top court. Being able to play against different players and challenge yourself every practice helps me improve and makes training exciting. The coaches do a great job of keeping it fun while still pushing everyone to be better.

HP has helped me improve my consistency, confidence, and overall game. Being able to practice in a high-level environment has pushed me to work harder and challenge myself every time I step on the court. I've learned a lot from the coaches and the other players. I've become a better player because of the competition and the effort everyone brings.

The HP tennis program has taught my tennis team and I the ways of true strategy on the court while playing a match. I have learned to stay focused on myself and my game, always give 100% effort—whether in practice or matches—and show respect for myself and others. I want to thank all the coaches that have helped out in this program to help me and my team become better tennis players over all these years.

Over the years, I've consistently played in the HP program. The tournament requirement and pressure point games we played in class prepared me for the intensity of high school sectional and state matches. Being in class with many talented kids helped me learn how to strategize against players with different styles and techniques. Overall, it's made me a stronger player!

The HP program helped prepare me for all of the different styles of players that you see in not only USTA tournaments but also high school season. Through the exposure I learned how to best respond in a variety of scenarios, enabling me to become ready for all sorts of shots and patterns. HP also is a way for me to still hit with my teammates in the off season, strengthening our bond but helping each other get better. Not only that but it also lets me connect with a lot of different players that I might have never had the chance to meet. Most importantly, HP is part of what makes tennis fun.
